When I sit back and recall my first-day experience in a secondary school, I often laugh at myself. I reached school early that day but was excited to see new faces. Many parents accompanied their children whom looked smart in their new uniforms. I was looked forward to seeing my former classmates but I did not see any of them. All Form One students was told to go to the hall right away. Later, all the form teachers took the students to his respective classrooms. The teachers started to call out our name. When I did not hear my name, I quick approached her. She went over the list again and informed me that my name was not above it. That puzzled me since I was sure I had registered my name. I was then told to check with an office. I finally located the office and meet the school clerk. I was told that I was not registered there. Only then did I realise that in her excitement, I had went to the wrong school. On arriving at the correct school, I told my friends what had happened and they had a good laugh.	e.g. and (a) _____ (b) _____ (c) _____ (d) _____ (e) _____ (f) _____ (g) _____ (h) _____ (i) _____ (j) _____

Reflections of a young boy called Mawi

I've been searching for my passion. I think if I choose to be a businessman, I'll be rich...

But just when I think I have decided on my choice, I am engulfed by a surging need to be a surgeon... and save lives...

When I really think about it logically, I can see now there might be a need for surgeons. To be a businessman or a surgeon? I am amazed my dad seems to be sure what is good for me. Oh well.....

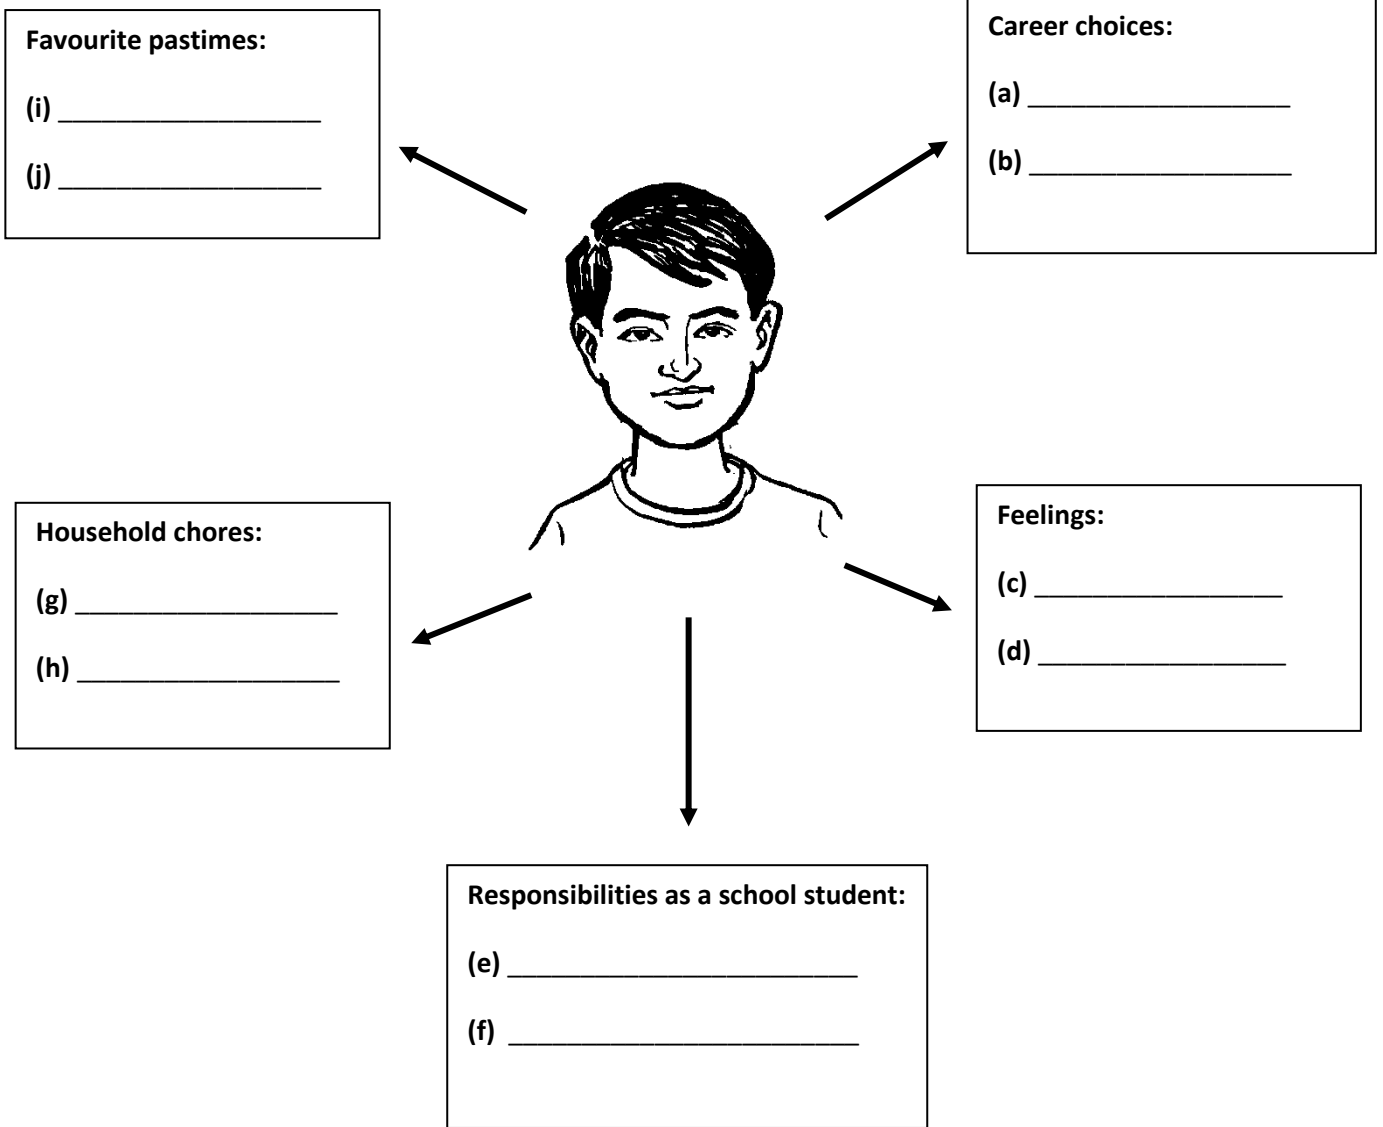

But then I still can't decide...I'm confused. I'm told I think too much. As a child, I don't have to think so much about my future....yet! I'm just supposed to go to school and gain knowledge. If I do well in school, I can go to university and achieve my ambition.

Well, never mind. Since today is Saturday, guess I'll just stay home and do my favourite things... Maybe I'll watch TV... read a book, or even play football! Or I could even help dad to wash the car and water the plants.

Question 4

Read the letter from Sheela to Samaira.

Dear Samaira,

Nice hearing from you after such a long time. How are you and everyone at home? Well and in good health, I hope. I am fine too except that I am busy preparing for Deepavali which is just around the corner.

By the way, I know that your end-of-year examination is coming soon and you must be very busy preparing for it. I remember you asking me over the phone a fortnight ago for tips on how to do well in your examination.

I am really no expert but I believe these tips should be helpful. To begin with, look after your health. Remember to have a balanced meal and avoid junk food altogether. Also, drink plenty of water and get sufficient sleep. Besides, you should not study at the eleventh hour as studying like this would not help you. Learn to pace your revision with regular rest periods.

Next, form a study group with friends you can work with. By doing this, you can learn to help each other overcome your weaknesses. This could be done through the sharing of notes, exchanging of ideas and having discussions.

In class, make sure you take down short notes. This will help you obtain the necessary information that is essential for revision. Become a member of the state library. Not only can you borrow books without buying them, you can also enjoy the advantage of a conducive study environment.

Last but not least, avoid online chatting and gaming. It takes up a lot of your valuable time. Give up your habit of spending hours on Facebook. You might get addicted to it. Instead you should concentrate on your studies from now if you want to succeed.

I hope the advice would be useful. Take care and do call me if you need any help.

Your cousin,

Sheela

Who lights the stars, when they blow out,
